Comment
Of The Day
Rationing must continue

THE sight of thousands of gallons of water pouring to waste over the rim of the Colony's reservoirs is one that can be regarded this year with a little less than the usual frustration. For while our water worries are far from over, the prospect of China augmenting supplies during the dry season relieves concern for the immediate future.

The pipes connecting Tai Lam Chung, our biggest reservoir, with the Chinese dam at Shumchun are due to be completed in November. Agreement on supply is still awaited. Assuming it is forthcoming, for the first time in years the Colony will be relieved of the prospect of a spring short-fall or drought. But even if Chinese water does come in sufficient quantities from Shumchun it is to be hoped that some kind of water rationing will be continued, at least to ensure that the Colony gets no more water in the dry season than it receives in the two supply periods a day in summer.

THE reason for this request for frugality which may seem strange to some, is that Hongkong's water consumption has been rising in recent years—sufficiently to provoke concern. Domestic and industrial needs are growing at such a rate moreover that Shek Pik's supply, when it comes, will be rapidly absorbed. It will be argued quite properly that that is what water is for—to drink, not to store.

True enough, but the cost of reservoir building—which appears to be the only way to meet our water needs—is prohibitively against giving the people all the water they want. By the time the Plover Cove and Hebe Haven scheme comes into existence, total expenditure on the three main postwar reservoir projects will have exceeded $1,000 million. This does not take into account the numerous service dams which have been built regionally. Indeed one wonders how long it will be before the vast supply of Plover Cove is taxed to the extent that Hongkong will again have to lean on China for winter and spring supply—or build more dams.

INDUSTRY'S needs must of course be met and the burden of domestic consumers lightened, particularly for those who rely on communal taps. But there can be little complaint if we are restricted to two four-hour supply periods a day all the year round. It will mean some hardship and inconvenience but it is a small price to pay compared with the vast outlays the Colony already faces for reservoir construction.

Besides, land is too valuable to be submerged under huge artificial lakes and with the increasing pressure on space, the available foreshores would be better reclaimed for industry and housing than earmarked for water storage. The Colony should not grumble if rationing is maintained. We have had it long enough now to accept it as part of the routine of life. We can go on doing so indefinitely.

Public denunciations expected as tension mounts MAO-K SHOWDOWN SOON

Battle for Communist leadership

Washington, Aug. 30.

Top U.S. officials expect the bitter backstage fight between Russia and Communist China over international Communist policy to erupt into the open within the next few months with possible public denunciations on each side.

Berlin border closed

Berlin, Aug. 31.
East Germany closed the East-West Berlin border to East German citizens shortly after midnight tonight.

Laotian it announced that as from midnight, West Germans will not be allowed to visit East Berlin without prior permission. It would bar West Germans for the duration of a convention in West Berlin of people expelled from the former East German territories.

The convention is due to last five days.

The announcement described the expelled people as "revengers seeking militarists" meeting in West Berlin to stir up a "campaign of hatred" against the East.

WEST WARNED

At the same time the East German regime warned the Western allies against "misuse of the air corridors" for transport of "militarists and revenge seekers" because the "sides are solely and alone for the supply of troops of the three Western powers stationed in West Berlin."

Normally West German visitors to Berlin can freely move about the city, including the eastern sector.

The announcement said that during the convention, until midnight on September 4, they will not be allowed in the eastern sector without prior permission from the East German Interior Ministry.

Inhabitants of West Berlin and members of the Allied garrisons would not be affected by this order.—AP.

Typhoon Faye raced toward Tokyo today while rescue workers in western Japan worked to clean up destruction wrought by typhoon Della.

Faye, with 66-mile-an-hour winds, was moving north-northeast at 21 miles per hour. Japanese police said, meanwhile, that death and destruction were mounting swiftly in the wake of typhoon Della which smashed western Japan on Monday.—UPI.

According to the latest report 25 people are known dead and 27 others missing, including an American whose yacht sank in the inland sea near Kushimoto on Monday.—UPI.

JORDAN PREMIER'S ASSASSINATION

King Hussein accuses Nasser of 'complicity'

Amman, Aug. 30.
Jordan's King Hussein tonight charged the United Arab Republic with "direct complicity" in the time bomb assassination of Prime Minister Hazza Al-Majali.

King Hussein told newsmen in the Royal Palace tonight that two minor employees of the Ministry of Defence were "linked up with responsible people in the UAR."

The two time bombs shattered the foreign ministry yesterday, killing Prime Minister Al-Majali and 10 other persons.

A number of suspects have been arrested in connection with the explosions.

The arrests were made by a military investigation committee headed by Major-General Mohammed Saeed, chief of military security, which has formed immediately after the two bombings in the Foreign Ministry building.

Detained

Committee sources said a messenger boy from the Press Bureau—where the second bomb exploded—had been detained for questioning.

Two other messengers who disappeared several hours before the explosions were believed to have escaped to Syria, the sources added.

Official sources said 41 people were injured in the bombings, not 44 as earlier stated.

King Hussein, Mr. Bahjat Talhouli, the new Prime Minister, and senior army officers attended a funeral service here today for Mr. Majali. The late Premier's body will be buried at Kerak, his hometown in southern Jordan.

The situation in Amman was normal today. Shops reopened and communications were resumed. But Arab and foreign embassies, government and army buildings hung their flags at half-mast. The Royal Palace declared mourning for the victims of the explosion for 24 hours as from this morning.

KING HUSSEIN

Amman radio today accused agents of Damascus, capital of the Syrian region of the United Arab Republic, of carrying out the bombing.

Jordan radio programmes were still suspended except for official communiques and readings from the Koran.—UPI and Reuters.

Hussein's message to UN chief

Amman, Aug. 30.
King Hussein today cabled Mr. Dag Hammarskjöld, the UN Secretary General, urging all friendly and peace-loving nations to be aware of Jordan's difficulty in preserving her freedom, security and integrity.

News of the cable came a little more than 24 hours after bomb explosions killed Jordan's Prime Minister, Mr. Hazza Majali.

The cable also expressed appreciation of Mr. Hammarskjöld's action in ordering his special emissary, Signor Pier Spinnelli, to return to Jordan. "In order to serve the cause of justice."

Well-known U.S. zipper makers to open plant here

A well-known American zipper manufacturing concern is going to set up a plant in Hongkong late this year.

Talon Inc. will establish the factory in Castle Peak-road near the Hongkong Spinners.

The Hongkong factory will cater for garment manufacturers in Far Eastern countries.

Building construction for the factory is already underway.

It will be staffed with about 50 workers and equipped with Talon machinery to be shipped here from America.

TECHNICAL ADVISERS

Two engineers will arrive from the United States late this year to be in charge of the technical matters.

Raw materials will be obtained from sources all over the world.

According to Mr. William Walcott, Manager of Connell Brothers (HK) Ltd., partner of Talon's new Hongkong factory, "the Far Eastern market is bigger than we can supply."

The plan will materialise in November or December this year when Talon's International Division Vice-President may arrive in Hongkong to put the new factory into operation.

JOINT VENTURE

Talon will be responsible for the manufacturing side of the plant while the Hongkong partner, Connell Bros., will look after sales of the products.

Talon decided on the Hongkong venture in view of the fact that garment imports into U.S. from the Far East had contributed to the shrinkage of the domestic market for their zippers.

Mr. Lewis Walker, President of Talon, said "We don't intend to import zippers into America."

Hongkong garment industry makes use of zippers from Japan, West Germany, Sweden and USA.

There are five local zipper manufacturers also supplying the local garment factories.

But by far the major supplier is Japan according to official information.

African sentenced to death

ULRICA SCOTT-FORBES
The murdered artist.

Capetown, Aug. 30.
John Denis Eccolone, 20-year-old coloured man, was yesterday sentenced to death in the Supreme Court here for the murder of Mrs. Ulrica Scott-Forbes, 57-year-old artist.

Mrs. Scott-Forbes—who was commissioned by the Queen Mother in 1954 to paint a portrait of Princess Anne—was found last May 10 in her flat here suffering major burns. She died in hospital the next day.

According to evidence at the trial, she had been beaten, criminally assaulted, strangled and burned.—Router.

U.S.-British agreement on bases

London, Aug. 30.
The United States and Britain have reached agreement in principle on new terms for the use of British bases by American planes, diplomatic sources said today.

Only details remain to be settled before the accord is completed.

It was understood that Britain will be given a bigger say in the use of the bases, especially on the dispatch of American planes from these bases for reconnaissance missions close to the Iron Curtain.

The problem was highlighted by the RB-47 plane incident last month. The plane, shot down by the Russians over the Barents Sea on July 1 took off from a British base.—UPI.

'Young Marshal' still kept under custody

Taipei, Aug. 31.
Marshal Chung Hsueh-liang, son of the late Manchurian warlord Marshal Chang Tso-lin, is still under custody in a suburb of Taipei, it was authoritatively learned today.

The "Young Marshal," already 60, now has been held a prisoner since the dramatic Sian coup of December, 1936, when he kidnapped Generalissimo Chiang, released him and went to Nanjing to atone for his sin.

He took refuge in a spring resort in Hsinchu, south of Taipei, when he was first flown here from the mainland in 1941.

In recent years, according to sources, he has been permitted to move around quite a bit, visit intimate friends and very often to spend some time with the first couple.

But he has not been set free in the strict sense of the word. Denying a foreign wire report, sources said the government would make it public if his custody were to be ended.—AP.

EUROPE'S BIG BOOM

Economic growth will continue at fast pace

By ALEXANDER THOMSON

London, Aug. 29.

How long will Europe's big boom last? Every business man must surely be wondering about that important question. So today I asked it of Sir George Bolton, one of the "bankers extraordinary" of the city.

"I believe Europe's economic growth is only just beginning," he declared, with a candour that almost knocked me flat. "Expansion may well go on for the next ten or twenty years and at a pace we have never seen before."

By tradition, bankers are cautious men. They weigh their words carefully. They never exaggerate.

And at 59, Sir George Bolton is one of the most highly-placed of them all. A man whose views command wide respect.

Director

For years he was an executive director of the Bank of England where he played a big part in guiding the pound back to strength after the economic destruction of the war.

Three years ago, he gave up full-time work there to step out in the city in a substantial way.

Now he is Chairman of the Bank of London and South America. Other directorships include Commonwealth Development Finance Company and the Canadian Pacific Railway.

As we talked, Sir George swiftly sketched in for me the background to his beliefs.

"In the years between the two wars," he said, "everybody regarded Europe as a disintegrated collection of fuddy-duddies."

"America became the colossus and magnet for much of the lost capital of the world."

"As a result, she was able to progress and expand her industries to a remarkable degree."

"The pendulum is now swinging the other way. America faces a period of consolidation rather than growth."

More stable

"But Europe is moving into a more stable political situation and its age-old tradition of saving investment and hard work is having the inevitable break-through."

I asked Sir George whether he regarded Britain as being part of Europe for his hopes for the future.

"Of course it is," he replied. "We must benefit from the expansion. It is likely to continue there in the coming years."

Another question: "Do you believe then in the common market idea?"

His answer gave me a second jolt.

"It is a lunatic political conception through which people will be thrown together by politicians at the top and a lot of devoted civil servant."

"But politicians come and go and you can never tell who new men will be. This may lead to unexpected danger."

"Europe should certainly be more unified. The process, however, should start at the lowest possible level, that is, with the individual."

"As a first step we should aim at getting rid of passports in order to encourage people to come together."

Ups and down

Sir George Bolton who started in banking at seventeen has put the Bank of London and South America into the Continent in a big way.

It has built up a network of agents there and has one of the largest foreign exchange turnovers in the city.

As we walked together to the lift I asked one last question: "In a nutshell how do you see Britain's position now?"

He replied: "At a time of dynamic change we must expect ups and downs. But the trend is strong. We must not be afraid of prosperity."

"Ah," I thought as the lift whisked me away, "Sir George for a merrier England."—London Express Service.

Profit-taking results in big Wall Street losses

New York, Aug. 30.

Profit-taking today threw the stock market into its widest losses in more than a month wiping nearly $3.5 billion from stock valuations.

The falling evidence picked up toward the close leaving a majority of issues at or slightly below their lows for the day.

Steels, chemicals, some coppers and electronics were among the heaviest hit.

Despite the market's overall weakness, some stocks were calling it a "natural retrenchment" in the wake of recent sharp gains.

Industrialists registered big losses. There were declines of more than two in General Electric and Du Pont, nearly two in Western Union, more than one in Eastman Kodak, ex-dividend, Alcoa and American Telephone and more than a half in Westinghouse and Allied Chemical.

Electrograph and Complanter, two issues which have attracted considerable attention in recent days, failed to open even at a late hour because of an accumulation of orders.

The Complanter opening was delayed by a rush of buy orders. Early reports in the case of Electrograph indicated that buy orders were also the cause of delay.

Today's volume was 2,890,000 shares. Of a total 1,201 shares traded 295 were higher and 706 lower.

American exchange volume was 1,330,000 shares.

Bonds volume amounted to $4,270,000.

Cuba alleges 'aerial plot'

TELLS OF PLAN TO KILL FOREIGN MINISTER

Havana, Aug. 30.

The government radio said today that the Foreign Minister, Raul Roa, and the Cuban delegation to the western hemisphere foreign ministers conference returned secretly to Havana because they were told their airliner was to be shot down.

Stolen rug probed in Thorne case

Sydney, Aug. 30.

A report that a rug was stolen from Orange, in western New South Wales, two days before 8-year-old Sydney schoolboy Graeme Thorne was kidnapped, is being investigated by police.

The rug is said to be similar to that which Graeme's body was found wrapped in at Senforth, a harbour-side suburb, two weeks ago.

A woman resident of Orange has told Detective Payne that her rug disappeared on July 5, probably from her car.

Graeme Thorne was kidnapped two days later, and a £25,000 ransom demand was subsequently made to his mother together with the threat that if she didn't pay up Graeme would be "fed to the sharks."

ONE OF 3,000

The rug enshrining the murdered boy's body was identified as one of more than 3,000 made by the south Australian Unkaranga mills.

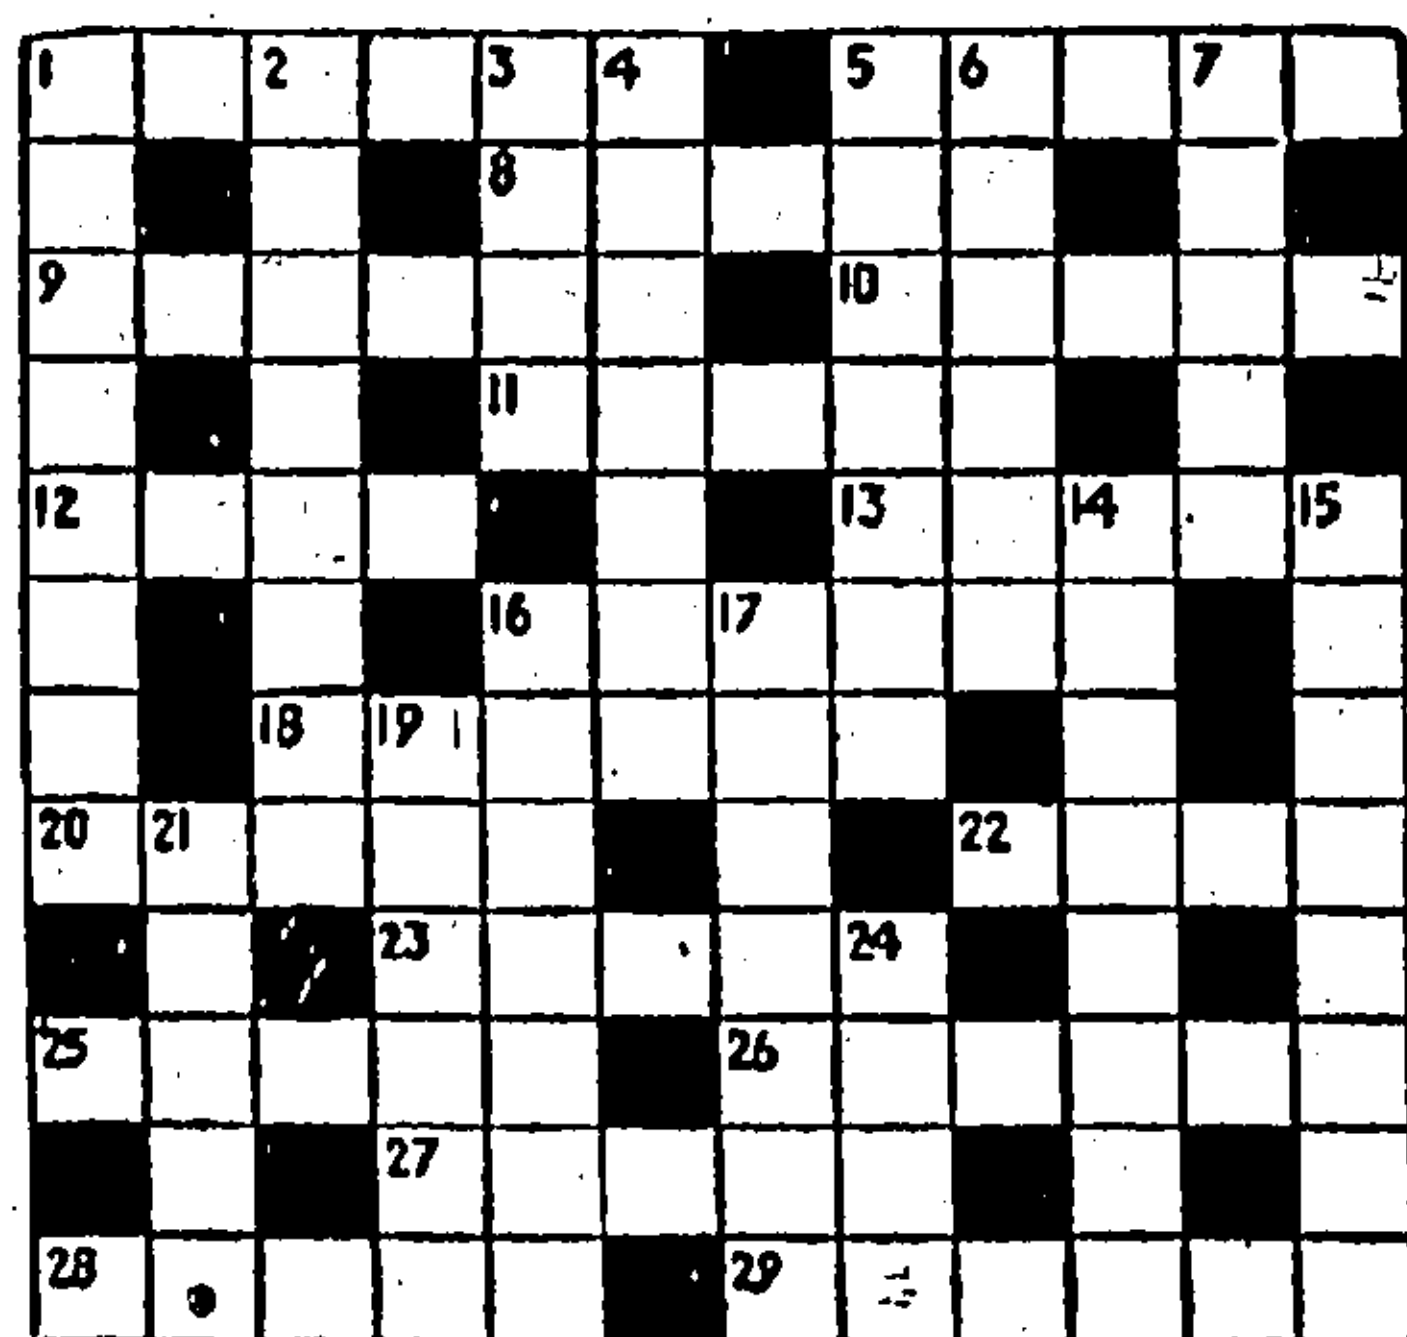

The acting Criminal Investigation Bureau chief, Detective Inspector A. Windsor, said today the report from Orange was one of many which had been received from people who had owned similar rugs and lost them.

"This report, as are all others, is being fully investigated," Detective Inspector Windsor said.

"However, there is no evidence to suggest the rug lost in Orange was the one wrapped around Graeme Thorne."

He added that despite the unrelenting efforts of the large special squad of detectives engaged in the case, there still was no clue to the identity of Graeme's killers.—China Mail Special.

Mystery father returns to Sydney

Singapore, Aug. 30.

A man who, for fear of the Kremlin, steadfastly refused to admit his identity, flew out of here for Sydney tonight after having intercepted two of his three children on their way with their mother to Russia.

He is Mr J. Lylyk, about 40, a hospital attendant of Sydney, who flew out here from Australia last Friday to intercept the liner Australia which arrived here yesterday with his wife, two sons and daughter on their way to Genoa.

When his wife refused to hand the children over to him Mr Lylyk went with his solicitor to the Singapore High Court and obtained a ruling making the children wards of the court.

Armed with that he returned on board with police and his solicitor to find his family locked in their cabin lavatory.

BROKE IN

After an hour of highly emotional argument a Harbour Police Superintendent came on board and, according to eyewitnesses, the door was broken open.

The oldest son aged 14, fought wildly to remain with his mother and finally Mr Lylyk left him and went ashore with three-year-old Helen and seven-year-old Peter.

From that point onwards Mr Lylyk remained silent. His identity was checked with airlines that brought him to Singapore, his hotel, shipping officials and local diplomats. He answered his name but never admitted it directly.

A U.N. spokesman said, however, that as of today, everything was quiet along the Kasai-Katanga border. Somewhere in the interior, informants said, are 100 Russian troops delivered here last week. They are of the type used here for transporting troops.

Premier Patrice Lumumba, who openly told Congolese troops in Stanleyville over the weekend of the impending march on Katanga, returned to the capital late today and went directly to Camp Leopold the Second where the army has its headquarters and barracks.

Lumumba was greeted by a 60-piece army band and an honour guard of Congolese troops which the U.N. forces admitted to the airport to honour the premier.

What happened within the family is blank until about a fortnight ago when the mother and children were to leave for Newcastle, north of Sydney, for a holiday.

Some days passed after their departure before Mr Lylyk heard that instead of going to Newcastle they had sailed for Genoa in the Australia.

He left on the first available jet airliner for Singapore and there intercepted them.—Reuters.

Death in a deckchair for parson who lost his voice

Singapore, Aug. 30.

A British parson who set sail for the Orient in a last bid to find a cure for a lost voice died early today on his ship which was only a few hours outside Singapore where Chinese doctors were waiting to treat him.

He was the Reverend Charles Last, of Great Horwood, Buckinghamshire, who according to relatives here, lost his voice completely early this year after suffering from laryngitis for four years.

The Rev Last's last voyage was to see the Chinese specialist, Mr Slow Keng Ngoh, who is an expert in the Chinese art of acupuncture.

Acupuncture is the art of healing which has been practised in China for 4,000 years and involves the insertion of long needles into certain nerve centres of the body.

The Rev Last has a nephew in Johore, across the Johore Strait from Singapore, who said he had urged his uncle to come to Singapore and try the Chinese form of cure.

LOST HOPE

"My uncle lost his voice completely early this year and doctors at home had lost hope of his recovery," the nephew, Mr C. B. Wright, said.

Acupuncture, which is practised in China alongside modern Western methods, is claimed to be effective for paralysis, rheumatism, epilepsy, asthma, headaches, colics and general aching.

There was no immediate information available as to the cause of Rev. Last's death.

He was seen to die in his deck chair on the boat deck of the liner William Rains by another Anglican minister from Australia, the Rev. Norman Fox.

"Rev. Last passed away quietly and peacefully," he said. "I was sitting in front of him after lunch. I saw him close his eyes and thought he was resting. It was only later when I noticed his face changing colour that I realised all was not well. By that time he was dead."

The ship's doctor, Dr A. G. Wiese, said the Rev. Last had come to him "a couple of times" during the voyage and he had been suffering from an asthmatic condition. As a result he had difficulty breathing and found it hard to sleep.

DIARY FOUND

In the parson's cabin a diary was found with an entry which read: "The ship's doctor was shocked when I said I was going to a Chinese doctor. I have had trouble with it for three years. The English doctors have done no good so I shall try the Chinese."

The last entry in the diary read: "I've been stem rpl ik heb geen stem" (Dutch for "I have no voice").

Mr Wright said his uncle had spent his entire savings amounting to about £1,200 on specialists in the hope of recovering his voice so that he might preach again.

Mr Wright financed the venture to Singapore.—Reuters.

Congolese army chief leads more troops to Katanga border

Leopoldville, Aug. 30.

The head of the Congolese army, General Victor Lundula, personally led another company of infantry to the airport today as the Congolese national army built up its forces in the interior for the occupation of rebellious Katanga province.

The troops apparently are being concentrated along the railroad leading to Elisabethville in Kasai province.

A U.N. spokesman said, however, that as of today, everything was quiet along the Kasai-Katanga border. Somewhere in the interior, informants said, are 100 Russian troops delivered here last week. They are of the type used here for transporting troops.

Premier Patrice Lumumba, who openly told Congolese troops in Stanleyville over the weekend of the impending march on Katanga, returned to the capital late today and went directly to Camp Leopold the Second where the army has its headquarters and barracks.

Lumumba was greeted by a 60-piece army band and an honour guard of Congolese troops which the U.N. forces admitted to the airport to honour the premier.

'DECOLONISATION'

Lumumba's spokesman, Serge Michel, reported that during Lumumba's visits to Stanleyville, municipal, provincial and national officials agreed to start with the "decolonisation" of names there.

Avenue Monsignor Jilson has been renamed Avenue President Lumumba and Bock Stadium will be known in future as President Lumumba Stadium.

The spokesman dealt briefly with the brutal attack on eight American fliers and two Canadian signalmen at the airport shortly before Lumumba arrived on Saturday.

Michel said a rumour that the Americans were Belgian paratroopers circulated through the crowd and the Americans and Canadians were attacked as they left the plane.

In Washington, it was announced that the United States has protested vigorously to the Congolese Government about the beating up of eight American servicemen and has asked for the attackers to be punished, the State Department announced today.

The protest, delivered yesterday in Leopoldville, said the eight men, crew of an American aircraft, were badly beaten with rifle butts, kicked and dragged over the ground.—AP and Reuters.

Moscow, Aug. 30.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev is arriving in Helsinki on Thursday night by special train, it was learned today he will remain until Sunday, official sources said.—AP.

Powers offers to take son's place in Soviet prison

New York, Aug. 30.

The father of U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers has offered to take his son's place in a Russian prison.

The offer was disclosed today by Life magazine, the publication devoted expenses of Oliver Powers and other family members in attending the spy's espionage trial in Moscow.

Before leaving Russia, the magazine said, the father wrote Russian Premier Khrushchev asking a chance to discuss switching places with his son.

"After all," the elder Powers was quoted as saying, "I'm 55 and getting old. The boy is young. There's a lot he can do in the world."

'BRAIN-BAKING'

Powers also told Life he believed his son had undergone "some sort of brain-baking," he said he and his wife noted that their son's forehead was peeling, as if from sunburn, but that the pilot said it was from a strong sunlamp used to treat two colds.

"But do you know what I suspect?" the father asked. "I think he had undergone some sort of brain-baking. That goes on in Russia, I understand."

Powers didn't explain further what he meant.—AP.

Verwoerd's plea to white voters

Bloemfontein, Aug. 30.

Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's ruling Nationalist Party called on all South African whites today to vote on October 5 to convert the union into a republic.

"Show the world that the white man in South Africa is not a colonial, a trespasser or a foreigner."

This was expressed in a resolution adopted at a party congress.

COMMONWEALTH

The congress adopted another resolution, introduced by the Minister for External Affairs, Eric Louw, declaring if South Africa becomes a republic as the result of the referendum, it should remain a member of the British Commonwealth.

The resolution added, however, that "in spite of past practice" South Africa should be denied continued Commonwealth membership as a republic then "a republic will be established which, though not a member of the Commonwealth will maintain friendly and other relations with those Commonwealth countries which are prepared to reciprocate."—AP.

Chinese group to visit Australia

Melbourne, Aug. 30.

The Australian Council of Trade Unions today announced it had invited a trade union delegation from Communist China to visit Australia in September.

The President of ACTU, Mr Albert Monk, said he had asked the All-China Federation of Trade Unions to send two delegates and an interpreter to tour the country.

If the Chinese accepted, the delegation would be taken on a three-week tour of all states to examine industrial, economic and social questions, he said.—Reuters.

London, Aug. 30.
The Canadian Pacific Steamship Company hinted today that it might decide to operate from another British port other than Liverpool if a current unofficial strike of ships' crews there continued.

"It might have to give 'serious consideration' to the suggestion because their Transatlantic Fleet have all become stranded at Liverpool by the four-week-old strike, a company spokesman said. Passengers have had to be flown to Canada or sent in other ships at a big financial loss.

RIOTS

Police riot squads were called out in Liverpool today when several hundred strikers stormed the local office of the National Union of Seamen which is opposed to the stoppage.

Police blocked the entrance as the men tried to push their way in, demanding that a branch meeting be held to discuss two resolutions denouncing a recent pay-and-hours award agreed between the union and employers to which the strikers object.

The strikers at an open-air meeting earlier voted to stay out and to increase picketing particularly of Irish boats to stop overnight sailings to Belfast and Dublin.

The strike is largely affecting Northern British ports.—China Mail Special.

POISON

Thirty-one tins of solidol, were found on board the ss Jacob Jekson on July 18. Mr. D. Cons of Central Court this morning ordered that they be confiscated.

Revenue Inspector Leung told the court that a man was arrested during the seizure.

Fireworks in London
rent siege

London, Aug. 30.
A warning rocket was fired today in the siege of two rent rebels barricaded in since Sunday at their homes in North London.

The rocket, of the fireworks variety, brought hundreds of neighbours rushing to stop balliffs from entering the two-bedroom flat which Mr Donald Cook, ex-paratrooper, has turned into a fortress to prevent eviction for rent arrears.

Pickets organised from a headquarters tent nearby stood in line at the locked gates as four police cars drove up presumably to break through his defences of barbed wire, iron bedsteads and old pianos.

But the police had only come along to pick up Mr Bob Burgess, siege commander of the flat, Kennislaun House in the populous inner suburb of Saint Pancras, for a friendly chat at the police station about maintaining law and order.

Mr Cook, aged 38, and also Mr Arthur Rowe, 55-year-old widower, have been holed in at their flats in different parts of the borough since Sunday midnight awaiting eviction for refusing to pay higher rents through a new differential rent scheme.

They are being supported by the other council tenants.—China Mail Special.

Briton cleared of

Amsterdam, Aug. 30.
Dutch police said last night that there would be no arrest or charge following their investigations into the reported $50,000 theft of five paintings from a house rented here by British property dealer Mr Robert Cook.

Police said Mr Cook would get his passport back today and would leave for Britain on the night boat to Harwich with his green Jaguar car.

Cook was questioned throughout yesterday and right through the evening by the Dutch police.

At one point he was taken to the flat in the Sloestraat in the South of Amsterdam, which he had rented and from which the paintings were stolen, in order to retruce the events on the night of the theft.

Present at the reconstruction was Mr Donald Buckingham, representative of Toplis and Harding, agents for the Fine Art and General Insurance Company of London, who insured the paintings.

Mr Cook, 29, came to Holland by car via France and Belgium on August 19 with paintings said to belong to Mr John Leppman, an English businessman.

He rented a ground floor flat in the house of a Dutch family.

On August 24, police said the house had been ransacked and the paintings gone.—China Mail Special.

Mr John Stonehouse, Labour M. P. for Wednesbury who was deported from Rhodesia a year ago, is still prohibited from entering the Rhodesian Federation.

Sir Malcolm Barrow, Federal Minister for Home Affairs, said here today.

Sir Malcolm said that if Mr Stonehouse tried to enter the Federation he must take the consequences of the law.

(This statement came as Mr Stonehouse was in Nairobi on his way to Rhodesia).

He said there: "I would take a very serious view of it if they the Rhodesian Federal Administrators) tried to interfere with the rights of a British Member of Parliament who is carrying out duties in British Protectorates which are responsible to the United Kingdom Parliament."

NO TROUBLE

(Mr Stonehouse was expelled from the Rhodesian Federation during the Nyasaland emergency. During his present tour he plans to visit Kenya, Tanganyika, Nyasaland, Southern Rhodesia, Bechuanaland, Northern Rhodesia, the Congo and Ghana.

(He said before leaving London yesterday that he expected to go to Nyasaland from Tanganyika on about September 6.

He said then: "It is not my intention to provoke trouble. I just want to slip in and do my job as a member of parliament."—China Mail Special.

THE "HERO OF STANLEYVILLE"
DIES IN AFRICA

Nairobi, Aug. 30.
Mr Harold Stanton, Honorary British Vice-Consul who became known as the "Hero of Stanleyville" during the Congo panic in early July, died there on Monday, it was learned here today.

He was suffering from malaria and jaundice.

Mr Stanton was manager of a British firm in the Oriental Province Capital.

He stayed on during the panic in Stanleyville shortly after the Congo independence and arranged the evacuation of hundreds of British, Belgian, Greek and Albanian, as well as his wife and two children, who now are in Kampala, Uganda.

It was known that he had been suffering from malaria but he had said he was much better.

A friend who met Mr Stanton in Nairobi last month when he went to discuss the refugee situation said the shortage of doctors and the deteriorating health situation in the Congo may have affected his chances of recovery. — China Mail Special.

Boac strike
is settled

London, Aug. 30.
The Duke of Edinburgh disclosed today that he had taken a hand in a strike of Automobile Association clerks at Birmingham.

The Duke, president of the two-and-a-half million strong motoring organisation, said in a letter to the General Secretary of the Clerical and Administrative Workers Union that he was "in touch" with the chairman of the A.A. (Lord Brentford), and the Ministry of Labour.

He hoped a solution would be reached.

INTEREST

The General Secretary, Miss Anne Godwin, commented: "It is just what I had hoped for."

She wrote to the Duke asking him to intervene in the dispute, now entering its third week.

The strikers want union recognition and the re-instatement of girl clerks sacked in Birmingham for staging a half-day strike for better pay and conditions.

Members of the Terbury, Gloucestershire, branch of the National Union of General and Municipal Workers who belonged to the A.A. said today they have withdrawn from membership in support of the clerks' strike.

They said they were recommending the union's 20 other Gloucestershire branches, with 15,000 members, to follow suit.—China Mail Special.

Paris Newsletter

FROM DONALD EDGAR

Paris. I WANT to destroy one great myth this week. It is that the English are the people who have an obsession with the weather. I now know that it is the French who really can never stop talking about "Le Temps."

It may be that the bad weather this year has exaggerated their interest. In fact the first thing any Frenchman or Frenchwoman discusses is the weather.

They look up at the sky and discuss the clouds. They look at their thermometers and barometers and worry whether they are going up or down.

The habit

I have now learned the habit. I am constantly talking about the weather myself. When I get back to London it will be quite a change to talk about the Royal Court Theatre.

A problem

France, like every other country, has its juvenile delinquent problem. They have their young men. The Wild Ones, who career around the high roads and sometimes get into trouble. They call them here, "Les Blousons Noirs," referring to their black leather jackets. But

That so-English topic—it's the talk of Paris...

Yes, I mean the weather

now they have a class, "Les Blousons Noirs," which is difficult to translate but roughly refers to the same type of young man who comes from a rich family.

The papers recently have been filled with a number of cases where young men of good family have been involved in theft, and sexual violence.

Right answer

One of the more neurotic experiences in working in Paris is the telephone. The trunk system is more or less automatic. But this involves dialling certain code numbers, listening to music and disembodied voices which give you instructions which when you carry them out have no effect whatsoever.

I have various moods with my telephone. Sometimes I look at it and feel I will flatter it, be polite. At other times I attack it in the spirit of Waterloo.

Shall we say that my number is Opera 02451. You find yourself involved with the telephone. You give your number in reasonable French. "Ah! Oui, Monsieur," she replies. "Opera 02451."

"Non, Mademoiselle, you reply, 'Opera 02451.'"

"Ah, oui, Monsieur," she replies. "Je comprends Opera 02451."

This is the moment of truth. This is the moment of crisis. If you can overcome this you have solved the problem.

You either lose your temper and say something rude, in which case the whole of the telephone system will be working against you for the next few hours, or you swallow hard, remember you are a calm Englishman and say "Mademoiselle, no doubt you are more beautiful than your lovely voice. I would like Opera 02451"—and you will get it.

It is not just an anecdote, it expresses something in the French soul. They are born with normal life. They must have a drama. And if life doesn't provide drama naturally, well they will create it.

None left

Recently I thought there were 100,000 Parisians left in Paris and 100,000 American tourists. Now the 100,000 Parisians have left.

In the fashionable bars, such as the Georges Cinq and the Crillon I have seen them filled with Americans—and when I say filled, I mean filled. There has not been one French person there.

Mrs Wilding has an amusing week

MRS SUSAN WILDING and her friend Mrs Dolly Goodman, wife of the London advertising man, had quite an amusing week here in spite of the fact that Sue had come over in a state of nerves after breaking with Michael Wilding.

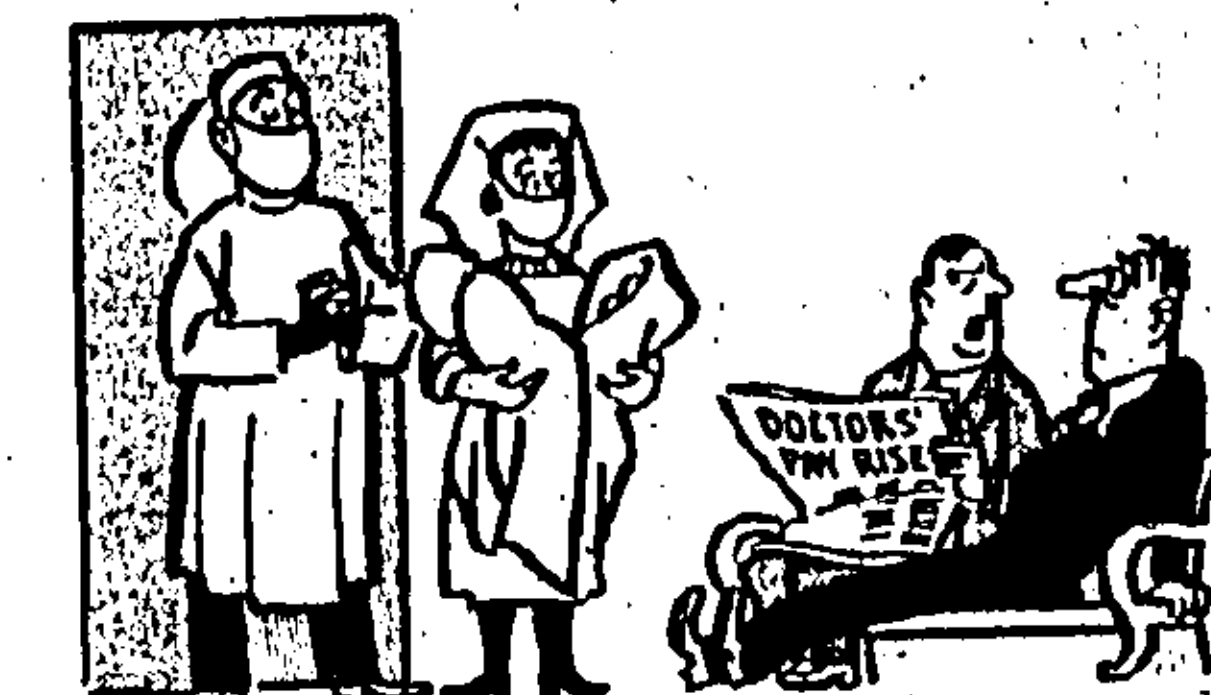

My own opinion is that Susan Wilding (above) will recover fairly swiftly to carry on with her usual active life. I know that the break-up was envisaged as early as 18 months ago. She told me that she put up with it after that because she felt she ought to do her best for Michael. Dolly was a great success here in Paris. She is half-Japanese, very lively, very amusing, and dresses extremely well.

Civil war fear in a town called Paradise

From BERTRAM JONES

Savannakhet, Laos. I AM writing this from the Edge of Paradise.

That is the ancient name for Savannakhet, a French-style village among palms and swamps now dripping under monsoon rains.

But today Savannakhet is the edge of danger.

Refugee Laotian Government Ministers and army generals, fugitives from revolutionaries who seized their capital city nearly a fortnight ago, are here planning a come-back that threatens to plunge into civil war. Here, in talks with their leaders, I have found a very different picture from the censored one that rebels under Captain Kong Lee are putting out from Vientiane, the captured capital 300 miles away.

Challenge

There, the takeover by Kong Lee and his 800 rebel paratroopers is presented as complete, with Britain-sized Laos and its 2,000,000 easy-going people firmly under the rebel Government.

But General Phoumi Nosavan, Defence Minister before Kong Lee's coup, assured me the rebels will be challenged.

First, by blockading the rebels' food and fuel. Second, by a shooting war—if necessary.

At this moment, the battle is psychological. Rival radio propaganda clogs the air.

Until now grisham-faced Kong Lee, the paratroop captain who cries when he becomes emotional, has had it all his own way.

He has seized the only Laotian radio, and now a Laos freedom station is on the air. Working from an army hut turned into a broadcasting station, its wavelength is deliberately so close to Vientiane's that a fractional turn of the tuning dial will bring it in.

For nine hours a day it tells Laotians that Kong Lee is a Communist stooge.

I found General Phoumi enormously composed considering that his wife and seven children are hostages in Vientiane, and have been threatened with rebel reprisals if he moves against Kong Lee.

He revealed that he has troops marching on Vientiane from two directions.

The Genghis, he said, is that the rebels have captured large stocks of weapons and ammunition in Vientiane, and may arm the people and persuade them to fight for Kong Lee.

Already General Phoumi's intelligence service reports that Communist agents are in Vientiane advising the rebels.

And if the Pathet Lao guerrillas—originally recruited to fight for independence from France, and now turned Communist—join in, it could mean murderous civil war.

But against that Phoumi claims that troops in every province outside Vientiane are behind him.

Treaty

Vientiane's food and petrol supplies from Siam—alarmed at the prospect of neighbouring Laos going Communist—have almost ceased.

But rebels may get air drops of rice from Communist North Vietnam.

As General Phoumi discussed his problems, I remarked: "It is hard to see how a war without fighting can be won."

He smiled grimly. "I must act quickly," he said, "and it looks as if there must be a shooting war."

So far he has no intention of calling in Siam, which could involve treaty nations pledged to resist Communist threats in South-East Asia.

CUCKOO-CLOCK MINDS

RECENT NEWS GIVES THEM MUCH TO ANSWER FOR

by Chapman Pincher

IN that splendid film, "The Third Man," Mr Harry Lime, in the person of Orson Welles, made a profound, if slightly exaggerated, statement about the Swiss.

He pointed out that though, through lack of ambition, the Swiss have enjoyed a century of peace, all they have produced is the cuckoo clock. "There is deeply disturbing evidence that many of the politicians controlling Britain's future have developed this stultifying, cuckoo-clock mentality."

Second class

Their creed: Let us accept that we are a second-class nation. Let us stop trying to play at the big table. Let us keep out of ambitious ventures that might run us into big money.

Meanwhile, the Americans and Russians strengthen their command of space with one technical masterpiece after another, unchallenged by this once great pioneering nation.

The U.S. scientists have taken the lead with two quick triumphs in bringing a satellite safely back to earth and putting a 100ft. wide radio-reflecting satellite into orbit.

But who knows what wonders the Russians will announce at the International Space Congress which opened in Stockholm recently?

There could be no more convincing demonstration of where this failure to compete will lead us than the plight of the British scientists at this congress.

No guarantee

The Blue Streak project, Britain's only means of getting into the space business, flags on with minimum money, no priority, and no guarantee to the rocket men that it will ever come to anything.

This is the slow-death-by-starvation treatment. Because the politicians are terrified of military ventures, Britain seems doomed to become a poor relation of the U.S. in yet another exciting field of endeavour.

While the Americans will describe with pride their satellite achievements and their Mercury project to put an astronaut in space Britain's ex-terminating space Britain's ex-terminating space Britain's ex-

House of future passes its test

Los Angeles. AMERICA'S all-plastic "house of the future" will pass its toughest test here soon as it has its six millionth visitor. The house was built three years ago on the outskirts of Los Angeles against public scepticism that it wouldn't stand up to wear and tear.

But now the makers announce that after a "flourish" going over by the public, it shows virtually no signs of deterioration.

Officials say it should not be too long before other models start appearing in suburbs. They will be a strange sight.

The house has a central core containing kitchen, bathroom and laundry—from which project four glass-enclosed "wings," roughly resembling caravan trailers. These form the living areas.

Chairs adjust to any position of the body, and have built-in speakers for music listening. Open weave glass fibre draperies in "femur" and "hair" after the light through family room and children's wing.

The cost of it all? "We haven't figured that out," an official said. "But once we get started on a mass-production basis it should be cheaper than a conventional house."

Designed by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, the house is said to represent the most significant phase in home building in America.

The house is also described as "space-age" plastic per-

JACOBY on BRIDGE

FRANK Polidexter of Lubbock, Texas, writes: "Here is a hand that caused a lot of post mortem discussion at the Hillcrest Country Club championship here. I suppose my partner sitting South might have doubled East's two diamonds for takeout, but I still decided to show my six card club suit to the nine spot. Then after my partner had raised my clubs, I went on to the small slam. Is a defensive measure. Of course, East doubled me. He had two aces and his partner had opened the bidding, but as you can see I ruffed East's opening spade lead, dropped the king and queen of clubs together and rumped home with my contract."

This hand illustrates one of the interesting features of competitive slams. Sometimes a pair is pushed into a slam and just bids it because their opponents have competed. Other times the slam is bid as a sacrifice, but the bid actually makes. East could have opened the ace and another diamond and beaten the hand, but that would have been quite a lead. Another point of interest is Frank's comment that perhaps his partner should have doubled two diamonds for takeout. The answer to that one is that South certainly should have done so. The one time that you should make a takeout double with a two-suiter is after your opponents have bid the other two suits.

What do you do?
A—Bid four hearts. You have a nice opening two bid, but that is all and your partner has heard you.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of raising your two hearts to three your partner has responded three diamonds. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

Are you one of those unlucky people whose hair just won't go bouffant, no matter how hard you try? Do you find that a couple of days after a visit to the hairdresser your coiffure looks slightly unkempt? Relax—help is on the way.

THE hair stylists have at last come up with some designs that are simple, adaptable and easy to keep looking right, and the backroom boys of the beauty industry have come out with a new product—a setting lotion that really does set your hair, and keep it that way for almost a week.

First the new hairstyles—it took Paris, of course, to make the shingle really chic, but there is no denying that it is the most practical hairstyle that we have seen for a long time.

IT IS EASIER TO LOOK AFTER—an occasional trim to keep it in line, and the shingle is something that anybody can manage. If you like a longer, bobbed style you can curl the back ends of your hair into a page-boy roll. If you find it impossible to set your hair by yourself, you can have it cut really short and leave it alone.

IT SUITS ALL TYPES OF HAIR. Thick, coarse hair has never been a problem, but the girls with that fine fly-away hair, or a tightly curled frizz will find that the shingle suits them best of all, with no more hopeless attempts to lift it on rollers, no need to straighten out that frizz—a neat cap of shining, well-shaped hair is all that you need now.

IT IS EASIER TO LIVE WITH. The shingle stays slick in fair weather or foul. You needn't worry about being caught out in the rain, your hair is straight, anyway. Although the shingle is child's play to look after in comparison with the bouffant, you must observe certain rules if it is to look fashion-right.

YOU MUST wash your hair one day before it reads doing. Lank, grimy hair looks particularly bad when it is short and straight, and can't be slowed away in a French knot. You must keep your hair shining, and this means using a conditioning cream after your shampoo if your hair is inclined to be dry. Plenty of daily brushing will keep it looking right, and get that special shine. Polish your hair with an old silk scarf.

YOU MUST have hair that is a good colour. If you bleach it, give it a rest and return to a darker shade for a change. The brown tones are in now. Mouse-coloured hair can be given a new lease of life with a colour rinse in deep chestnut, perhaps, or dark warm brown. If you have one or two tell-tale grey hairs, look out for the colour-creams that will disguise them and last through several shampoos.

SETTING

If you are setting your hair yourself, aim for a smooth style with the hair curving up towards the cheekbones. Set the top hair in raised pin-curls—use rollers if you prefer—turning the hair under in the direction you want it to lay when it is brushed out. If you like a fringe, pin the short front ends over a pad of cotton-wool to give a slightly lifted effect.

The rest of your hair should be set flat in two rows of pin-curls—one clockwise the other anti-clockwise so that when brushed out they form a slight wave. Then comes the most important part of your new hairstyle—the side-curl. Take the two side pieces of hair over your ears and set them in flat small curls facing towards your cheek-bone. When your hair is dry comb the side-curls out carefully so that they remain absolutely flat, then keep them that way by adding a quick dab of lacquer.

The new hair-setting lotion which gives fine hair extra body, helps your style to stay in place

Milk Bottle Garden

—Punch And His Mother Made It Themselves—

By MAX TRELL

"MR PUNCH," said Hanid, the Shadow Girl with the Turned-About Name, "you told me and my brother Knarf that when you were very young, you were so very small that you were able to go for a swim in your bathtub, and paddle a soap dish boat around the tub with a spoon."

Mr Punch nodded. "And you also said," continued Hanid, "that you could sleep in a teacup and ride around the house on the Cat's back and swing on the pendulum of a clock and take a long walk around a slice of bread."

Again Mr Punch nodded. "In the summertime," "Now what I would like to know, Mr Punch," Hanid said, smiling up at him as he stood in front of his chair, "is what did you do in the summertime?" "I mean," she added, "did you go to the seashore, or did you go to the country, or where did you go?"

Mr Punch looked at Hanid for a moment or two, chuckling softly to himself as though he were thinking of something especially pleasant. Finally he said: "I stayed in my own room where I often went for a walk in my garden."

"Please, please," Mr Punch exclaimed Hanid, suddenly interrupting him. "What's wrong?" "My dear Girl, what's the matter? What did I say wrong?" Mr Punch exclaimed, looking surprised. "Of course you said something wrong," said Hanid. "How could you go for a walk in your garden when you stayed in your room? You couldn't do both things. If you went for a walk in your garden—and I never knew you even had a garden—you had to go out of your room. Because if you stayed in your room, how could you ever go for a walk in your garden?" Hanid asked.

"Just the same," chuckled Mr Punch, "that's what I did. I walked in my garden and stayed in my room!"

bit louder than the first time. "If you went for a walk in your garden and you stayed in a little room, then your garden must have been inside your room and nobody... or was it?" she suddenly said in a startled voice. "It was," answered Mr Punch. "Your garden was inside your room?" Hanid gasped.

Doesn't believe it

Mr Punch chuckled good-naturedly and he danced a little jig with his fingers on the arms of his chair and he waited until he saw that Hanid was waiting—waiting for him to explain exactly how it happened that he could, and did, take a walk in his garden inside his room! "Now what you forget, my dear," he said at last, "is that I was small—very, very, very small. And my garden was also small."

"How small?" asked Hanid. "Small enough to fit in a milk bottle," Mr Punch said. This time Hanid said in a much louder voice than the other two times before: "Mother helped"

"Please, please, please, Mr Punch!" "Oh, dear," said Mr Punch. "You don't think you can fit a garden in a milk bottle? Hmm, I guess you don't," he said the next moment after looking at her eyes which still kept seeming to say, "Please, please, please, Mr Punch!"

"No, I don't," said Hanid about. "This is how I grew my garden inside a milk bottle inside my room," said Mr Punch. "I washed and cleaned it."

"With a spoon my Mother helped me put some sand and earth inside the bottle. Then we laid it on its side and with two thin sticks my Mother and I stuck little plants in the sand and earth, and laid bits of moss here and there, and gently put bits of bark, and a tiny mirror. The little plants in the milk bottle looked like trees and bushes. The bits of moss looked like greeny lawns. The stones looked like rocky hills. The bark looked like fallen trees—"

Punch used to take walks in his little garden.

"And what did the mirror look like?" Hanid asked. "Like a pool," said Mr Punch. "And once a week," he went on in his pleasant voice, "I sprayed a little water in my garden to take the place of rain."

"And every morning, and every afternoon I crept inside the bottle and walked up and down the garden paths, and climbed the rocky hills, and napped on the grassy lawns, and sat on the fallen trees, and sat under the trees and bushes... and never, never, never went out of my room!"

And this time Hanid didn't say "Please, please, please, Mr Punch." She just looked at her old friend and smiled and thought how wonderful it must be to be small enough to take a walk in a garden inside a room inside a milk bottle!

FANTASTIC GAMES SWIMMING

Winners of 400m freestyle heats all break the Olympic record

Rome, Aug. 30. Fantastic! That is the only description for the men's 400 metres free-style swimming heats today at the 17th Olympic Games. Every heat winner, including Japan's T. Yamanaka, smashed the previous Olympic record, and one runner-up, Japan's Makoto Fukui, also beat it.

Tomorrow night's final promises to be the race of the Games.

The previous record was held by Australia's Murray Rose in 4 minutes 27.3 seconds. This is how it was smashed today:

Yamanaka (4:21), Australia's J. Konrad (4:24.7), Britain's Ian Black (4:21.9), Fukui (4:20.7), Rose (4:22.5), South Africa's "Titch" McLachlan (4:25.9) and America's Alan Somers, who clocked 4:19.2—the newest Olympic record.

Other highlights

Other highlights today included Italy falling by half a wheel to win all six gold medals in cycling, Ingrid Kramer, of East Germany, becoming the first woman to win two individual gold medals and the Roman sun claiming the first Asian competitor as a victim.

The gruelling 175 kilometre (109 miles) individual road cycling race was won today by the Soviet Union's Viktor Kapitonov, who thus denied Italy a clean sweep of all six Olympic cycling gold medals. Only inches separated Kapitonov from Italy's Lello Tappe in the finish.

In the women's high diving won by Kramer, Asia had two competitors in Japan's Kumiyo Watanabe and Kunioko Tsutomi. Miss Watanabe finished 10th and Miss Tsutomi 11th.

Kramer's first gold medal came in the springboard event. Italy's crack cyclist, Sante Galgani, is the first man to win a "double gold" in the Russia's Antonina Serebina won two canoeing "gold" yesterday, but one was in a team event.

Collapsed

The victim of the heat — today the temperatures were again in the high 90's (Fahrenheit) — was Korea's Ho Du Chon, who collapsed from heat exhaustion in the 175 kilometre cycling. He was rushed to hospital, but he was said to be not seriously ill and is expected to be out within three days.

Last week the heat led to the death of the Danish cyclist Knut Enemark, and his body was flown home to Copenhagen today.

A rumour swept the Olympic colony today that Russia had a Communist Chinese in their team. The allegation was supposed to have been made by a Nationalist Chinese official.

But Mr. Chuan Kih, a top official in the Foramen side, told reporters: "Neither I nor any of my colleagues has made any formal move at all because we do not know if it is true."

"We have heard reports that the Russians have a Chinese Communist athlete, but none of us has seen him around the Village," Reuters.

COUNTY CRICKET

Middlesex now well placed to take runner-up position

London, Aug. 30.

Now that Yorkshire have made certain of retaining the title, interest in the English County Cricket Championship centres on the struggle for second place between Lancashire and Middlesex.

Middlesex, who at their best have been probably the most attractive county this season, are now favourites for the runners-up position as the result of their 132 runs victory over Lancashire at Lord's today.

All after a 225 this morning. Middlesex set the northern county 338 to win in 305 minutes. Lancashire openers Bob Barber and Geoff Pullar put on 85 in even time, but after Don Bennett had broken the stand, it was obvious which way the result would go. Tiltus, with his off-breaks, finished with 57 in the dismissal of Lancashire for 205.

Middlesex are now second in the table with an average of 6.77 against Lancashire's 6.71. Both counties have one match to play.

Yorkshire emphasised their right to be champion county again with a nine wickets win over Worcestershire at Harrogate—their 17th victory of the season. They now have an average of 7.93.

Results of today's cricket matches were:

At the Oval: Surrey beat Glamorgan by an innings and 77 runs. Surrey 315 for seven declared. Glamorgan 101 and 137. Surrey 14 points.

At Buxton: Match abandoned. Sussex 118 for eight. Versus Derbyshire.

At Harrogate: Yorkshire beat Worcestershire by nine wickets. Worcestershire 119 and 148. Yorkshire 243 and 48 for one. Yorkshire 14 points.

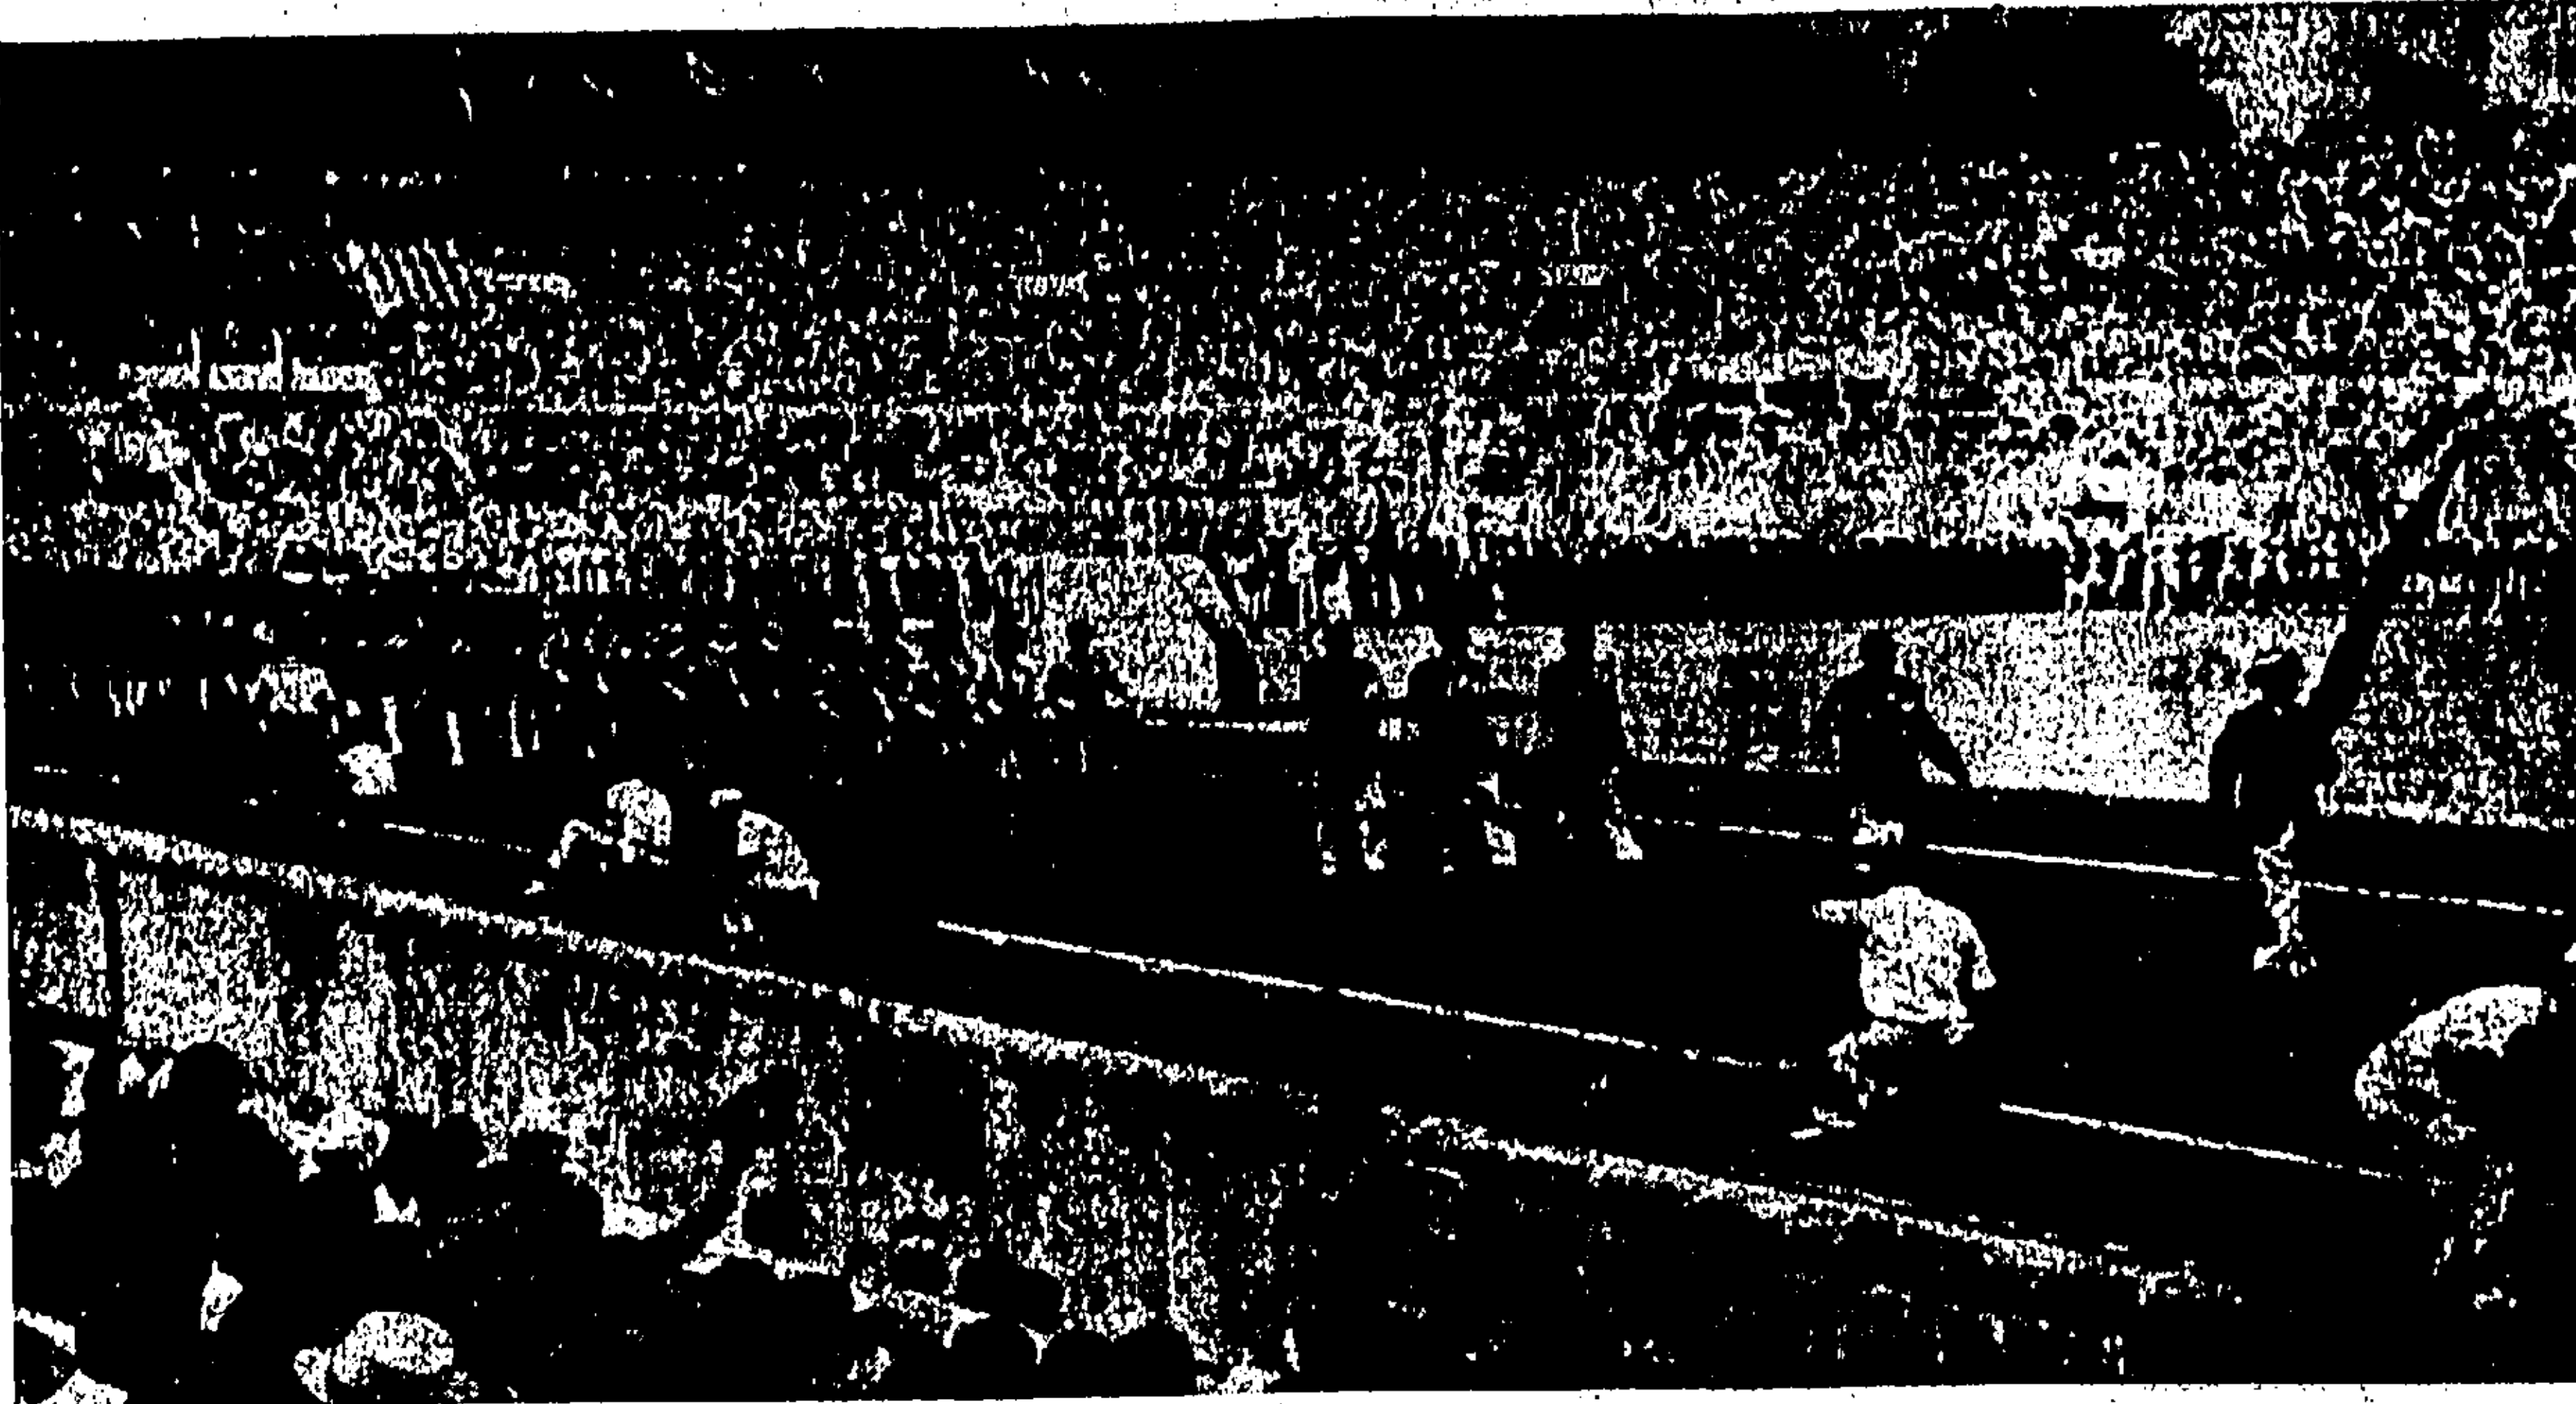

At Clacton: Gloucestershire beat Essex by seven wickets. Essex 211 and 79 (D. A. Court four for 14). Gloucestershire 140 and 144 for three (D. Carpenter 47, R. Nichols 46). Essex four points. Gloucestershire 12 points.

At Portsmouth: South Africans beat Combined Services by 227 runs. South Africans 239 and 201 for three declared. Combined Services 103 and 110.

At Lord's: Middlesex beat Lancashire by 132 runs. Middlesex 198 and 226. Lancashire 87 and 205 (K. Grieves 46, P. Marner 48, F. Tiltus five for 57). Middlesex 14 points.

At Dover: Match drawn. Warwickshire 291 and 127 for five declared. Kent 224 for nine declared and 18

Second Vespa Club annual night rally this Saturday

By OLLY VAS

The Vespa Club of Hongkong will be holding its Second Annual Night Rally on Saturday over a course of approximately 180-220 miles, which distance will include driving in town, its outskirts and in the New Territories.

The rally will start from the Tsimshatsui Car Park at 9.00 pm and end around 8.00 am the following day at the Shatin Inn where breakfast will be served and the results made known to all competitors. Each team will comprise a driver and navigator who will be allowed to take over the driving chores in this gruelling endurance test, for apart from an hour's break, around 2.30 am at the Inn, for hot soup and a leg stretch the teams will be on the move continuously for 10 hours.

The entries

Though the organisers have been quick to point out to entrants that those with second thoughts about driving for such a long period without a long rest should not attempt it 18 entries have been received. These comprise 10 GS machines and eight 150 cc models which is a low figure compared with the 37 entries submitted last year.

Among the entries received is one from Miss Anna Ding, current holder of the Ladies' Cup, plus such well-known names in the Club as George Huntley, "Ricky" Souza, John Y. Hu and others.

The competitors have been instructed to assemble at the Car Park at 8.00 pm with full tanks and Controller Jimmy Foo will send the first team away at 9.01 pm with other machines leaving at one-minute intervals. The rally will be in two parts, A and B with three sections in each. Prior to departure all watches will be synchronised, speedometer readings taken for comparison (at the finish) of each team's mileage for the rally with the actual checked distance for the course and blank cards will be handed to navigators in which will be noted down the symbols and for securing the marshal's initials at each checkpoint.

Five hours' driving

Route instructions will be in English and Chinese and will cover one section at a time. Thus, a team which misses the first checkpoint at the end of the initial section will be unable to continue, for the marshal there will move on exactly thirty minutes after the period of time allowed competitors to "finish" the section. Along each section there will be two symbols to be recorded in the navigator's card.

The team which attempts to take short-cuts somewhere along ANY section in either part A or part B of the rally will incur a penalty for stationing at various points along the route in each section there will be unidentified spotters whose duty it will be to ensure that teams have passed along the designated routes.

Without giving anything away I can reveal that completion of the three sections in Part A will take approximately five hours' of non-stop driving, provided of course the various marshals are contacted in each section at the checkpoints.

Canlex (Asia) Ltd have very kindly agreed to open their Tai Po Road service station from 2.00 am to 3.15 am so that all machines may fill up their tanks with 2-stroke fuel prior to proceeding to Shatin Inn for the start of the second part of the rally.

For each symbol missed there will be a 100 points penalty. Route instructions state clearly the time limits for completion of each section and teams must traverse the routes within the times set otherwise they will receive 10 penalty points for each minute difference. However, an allowance of one minute either way will be made so that if a 12-m report says 45 or 46 minutes for one section against a confirmed 44 no penalty will accrue.

Up Kowloon peak

Tentatively the plans call for marshals Robert Lee, Charlie Curry and Paul Kwok to be at Sections 1, 2 and 3 respectively but they will alternate their duties for the later stages of the rally.

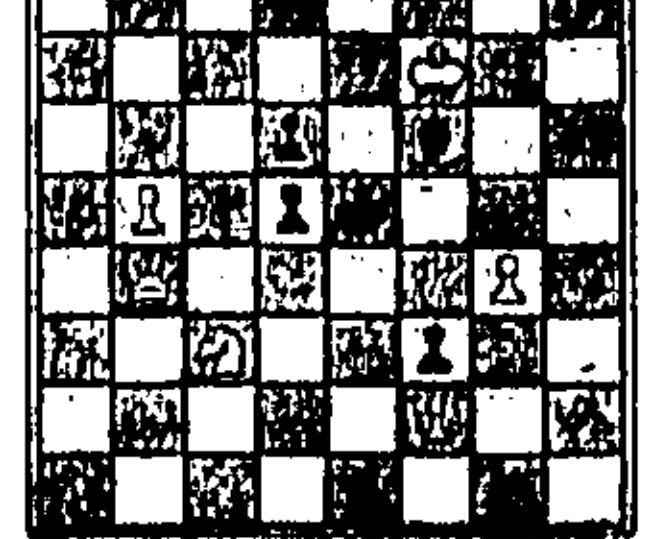

A trip up to Kowloon Peak is included as part of the course, for the organisers, complaints notwithstanding, quite rightly feel that mist is a natural hazard over which they have no control and who are they to predict if last year's weather conditions at this place will be repeated?

As a safeguard against premeditated acts of mischief as was the case last year when one of the teams in the lead was seen to uproot a symbol subsequently located in a ditch, much to the offenders' delight but to the consternation of those behind the Club, has wisely selected immovable objects as symbols and this should satisfy everyone. Road maps will not be issued but there is no objection to any team carrying one for the rally. Dunlop d'indochine will award four prizes for the drivers and navigators, three in the men's section and one in the ladies'.

Pie-race enthusiasm is high, judging from comments from various intending participants with whom I have had a few words. The outcome will be important for at least seven drivers who are in the running for the title of Best All-rounder since there are only two more events to be held before the end of the year. It should be an interesting drive for every-one—barring rain.

NOW TAI LAM IS FULL

But no guarantee of bonus for all

Tai Lam Chung Reservoir was filled to overflowing yesterday afternoon, bringing the Colony's total water storage to the full capacity of 10,469 million gallons.

This is the first time this year that all the reservoirs in Hongkong have been overflowing.

Asked if the whole Colony will get full day supply of water, a Government spokesman told the China Mail this morning that the situation will depend on consumption, weather and filtration capacity.

CONSUMPTION

"If the consumption figure is high, rates are scanty and filtration facilities cannot cope with high consumption in spite of all reservoirs overflowing, a full day supply will not be feasible," he said.

"However, at present many districts are receiving unofficial bonus supply all day round and such districts vary from day to day," he added.

Essentially there is no substantial change in the official supply hours for the Colony, according to the Water Authority.

This morning's downpour will go to waste.

RAINFALL

From midnight last night to 8 am today, 0.44 of an inch was recorded at the Royal Observatory.

The heaviest fall occurred between 6 am and 7 am.

Up to 7 am today, a total of 15.28 inches of rain had fallen in the wake of tropical storm Elaine since Monday last week.

And the total since January 1 was 66.57 inches as against 66.25 inches average for this time of the year.

Another new hotel for HK

Another new modern hotel to add to Hongkong's tourist accommodation will spring up in Causeway Bay in 20 months' time.

It is the 15-storeyed Waldorf Hotel which will be built at a cost of more than $3 million.

Construction will start in about two months' time.

The old hotel on the same site has been under demolition since mid-July.

In another week's time, the site will be all clear for new foundation work and construction.

According to the management, the rooms will be planned on ultra-modern lines.

There will be a restaurant on the first, second and third floors.

The first floor will also contain a night-club.

The other floors will be taken up by rooms, 100 in all.

There will also be a roof garden.

Indians on forgery charges

Two Indians appeared before Mr. D. Cons at Central Court this morning charged with uttering forged US$20 banknotes and possession of forged banknotes.

Mion Mohammad, 23, of Murray Barracks, and Abdulla Rafique, 32, of 67 Lockhart-road, second floor, faced eight counts of uttering forged documents and two charges of possession of forged banknotes.

The case has been transferred to the Victoria District Court.

The defendants were alleged to have committed the offences at various places in Hongkong between July and August this year.

Court hears of policeman's violent struggle

A policeman and another man tumbled 25 to 30 feet down a hill during a violent fight, the Victoria District Court was told this morning.

The fight following a narcotics raid on a house in Homantin village.

Chief Inspector C. L. Smith was outlining the prosecution's case in the trial of the man, 44-year-old Lee Ching, of Hut 150, Section 14, Homantin Village, Kowloon City, charged with possession of opium, and for assisting in the manufacture of opium.

Chief Insp. Smith said the court would hear that after a brief struggle, Lee got away from the detective.

However, the policeman later caught up with him, and another struggle took place.

The two men then fell 25 to 30 feet down a hillside near the village, and were both taken to Kowloon Hospital with multiple cuts and bruises.

There would be evidence to the effect that the detective was unable to walk after his fall, the inspector said.

ALLEGATIONS

Chief Insp. Smith said he was giving this summary of the events, because he did not doubt that allegations would be made against the police.

The raid was one of two carried out in Homantin Village by Sub-Inspector J. P. MacMahon and the Dangerous Drugs Squad in the early morning of July 7, he said.

The police party found the door of Hut 322 open, and they saw the accused in the kitchen. Evidence would be brought that pots and pans and other equipment used in the manufacture of opium were found in the hut, the inspector said.

The hearing continues.

Height limit for Kai Tak buildings

Two 30-year old, four-storey, houses at the corner of Prince Edward-road and Pak Le Tsin-road were the subject of an application for exemption at the Tenancy Tribunal this morning.

Mr. D. A. L. Wright, instructed by Mr. K. Y. Yung, of F. Zimmern and Company, is appearing for the applicants, Mr. Leung Shun Yee and Mr. Leung Fong Lin.

Mr. Wright explained that they wanted to develop this valuable site to the maximum height allowed. As houses 302 and 304 Prince Edward-road near Kai Tak Airport, they were only allowed to be six storeys high.

The new building, to contain six shops and 30 domestic flats, would cost $300,000 and be completed in nine months.

There are 23 opponents, including the proprietor of a billiard room on the ground floor of No. 302, and a maternity home, as well as other businesses.

Mr. B. V. Rhodes is President of the Tenancy Tribunal; the other members are Mrs. Tseung T'so Lai Kee and Mr. C. H. W. Robertson.

"The whole atmosphere was one of complete fear and panic.

"None of the air crews in the Congo were ever quite sure what was going to happen when they landed.

"They never knew who was in charge of the airport and were expecting any moment to be arrested when they landed.

"Many people I carried told how they had virtually lost their fortunes overnight."

One time prosperous businessmen arrived in Brussels after the airlift with just the maximum amount of money allowed to be taken out of the Congo — $US 100," he added.

Captain Begg told the China Mail that from his observations not a fraction of the stories of atrocities reached the outside world.

U.S. LIFTS BAN ON HONGKONG IVORY EXPORTS

The Director of Commerce and Industry announced today that the United States Treasury Authority has agreed to the resumption of exports of ivoryware to the USA under a revised procedure with effect from tomorrow.

Any factory wishing to register under the revised procedure should apply to the Comprehensive Certificate of Origin Section of the Commerce and Industry Department for details of registration.

Factories previously registered with the Commerce and Industry Department under the ivoryware procedure which was suspended at the request of the U.S. authorities on March 31, 1959, will be required to re-register under the revised procedure.

Suspensions

The temporary ban was brought about by U.S. suspicions that mainland Chinese ivoryware was finding its way into the U.S. market with the Hongkong conduit.

U.S. investigations started late last year.

The actual ban started on March 31, 1959 when the Commerce and Industry Department ceased to issue certificates of origin for ivoryware for export to America.

Meanwhile local investigations went on and found "nothing wrong."

Differs

The new revised procedure differs from the old procedure mainly in that certificates will be issued for only those products made on the factory premises but not for goods made by outworkers.

Formerly the ivoryware in-

HK share boom boosts company holdings

Boom conditions on the Stock Exchange pushed up the market value of a Hongkong firm's investments from just over $9 million to more than $15 million.

This was revealed today by the Chairman of Hongkong and Far Eastern Investment Co Ltd, Mr. D. I. Bosanquet.

He told today's annual meeting that the company's portfolio consisted of just over 98 per cent of shares in Hongkong registered companies.

The actual rise in investments was from $9,308,964 to $15,176,955 on June 30 this year.

He described the rise as unprecedented.

He continued: "While it is true to say that the strength of the local share market reflects continued faith in the Colony's future, much of that strength has been derived from the continued substantial inflow of funds to Hongkong from some Southeast Asian countries."

"Such funds can be quick to move in the event of any discouraging news or if alternative opportunities for more profitable employment arise, and it should come as no surprise to anyone if the present level of local share prices proves to have been unduly high."

The net profit for the year amounted to $712,794, compared with $588,078 the previous year.

A final dividend of five per cent was approved.

The report and accounts for the year were adopted.

Sir Tsun-nin Chau was re-elected a director.

Messrs. Peal, Marwick, Mitchell were re-appointed auditors.

Interim Dividends

Through the kind courtesy of your valued columns may I be permitted to draw the attention of Board of Directors of several firms including China Provident, Hongkong Telephone, Macao Electric, that interim dividends would be most welcome. Such firms pay dividend only once a year.

Widows, aged people and pensioners depending upon dividends for their subsistence would find that an interim and a final dividend would suit them very much better than to wait for a whole long year to get merely one dividend.

SENATOR Huey O Long, Louisiana Dictator, was shot dead by Dr. Carl A. Weiss, a Baton Rouge surgeon, in the corridor of the State Parliament House at Baton Rouge on Sunday evening.

It is expected that the curious "dictatorship" that Huey Long created in Louisiana will collapse with his death, and his "Share the Wealth" political movement may suffer the same fate.

The chief obstacle to President Roosevelt's reelection has been removed by Long's death. On hearing the news of the crime, the President expressed his regret and denounced it as "not American."

The family of Dr. Carl A. Weiss Jr, who was himself instantly slain when he fired at Senator Long, is unable to give any reason for the shooting.

Judge Dr. Weiss, father-in-law of P. Weiss and bitter opponent of the Long faction, said the shooting had nothing to do with Senator Long's proposed bill to deprive him of his judgeship.

FROM the SCM Post 25 Years Ago column (August 1910): "While rummaging among the ruins caused by the recent fire at Jervois Street, a large wooden box, scarcely touched by the fire, was discovered containing about $1,500 in 20-cent pieces."

"The box was taken to the police station where the contents were subsequently demanded by the relatives of one of the deceased men, to whom it was stated that the box belonged."

"Mr. L. D'Almada watched the money being counted yesterday morning and also the opening of the safe, in which it was said that a number of notes and a large quantity of gold was deposited."

"The cause of the serious outbreak has not yet, we learn, been discovered, but it is thought that the collapse of the house was caused by an explosion of gas."
